"While we have subscribed to other directory services, your product is far superior in accuracy, readability and completeness."

Karla Anderson, Co-owner
RRCA Accounts Management, Inc.

"We purchase a copy of the Polk City Directory every year because it helps our office function effectively. I use it at least weekly to find information about community leaders, members or visitors. The occupation and name of spouse data has proven to be very beneficial."

Pastor James W. White, Jr.
St. Giles Presbyterian Church
Raleigh, NC

"When developing databases for use with our targeted direct mail projects, we find that the Polk City Directory is far more comprehensive than any other source. GENERAL REVIEW

This Central Iowa community of approximately 48,000 residents offers a unique blend of small-town friendliness and convenience with the amenities of a large city for an unsurpassable quality of life. The ease of life and the abundance of enriching activities make living and working in Ames a pleasure.

Ames was developed in 1865, in anticipation of an expansion of the Cedar Rapids and Missouri Railroad. The community was named after Oakes Ames, a Massachusetts congressman who was prominent in railroad legislation and financing.

Ames is just a few miles from the geographic center of the state and only 30 miles from the state capital and Iowa's largest city, Des Moines. The rich quality of life, Ames residents enjoy results from the community's position at the heart of Iowa's cultural and educational resources, a position that holds great appeal to businesses and their employees.

Manufacturing, education, and the professions have surpassed farming as the major industrial focus of Ames. Iowa State University is the largest employer and ranks among the nation's leading research centers. It was an Iowa State University faculty member who invented the first electronic digital computer.

The headquarters of the Iowa Department of Transportation is located in Ames. The United States Department of Energy maintains the Ames Laboratory, a materials research facility, on the Iowa State University campus. The United States Department of Agriculture operates the National Animal Disease Center, the National Veterinary Services Laboratories, and the National Soil Tilth Laboratory in Ames.

These public institutions and the major businesses and industries account for a high incidence of professionals in Ames. The work force is highly educated and its strong work ethic is a powerful contributor to the vigor of the community. Story County, in which Ames is the largest community, ranks first in the state for its low poverty rate, and the Ames unemployment rate is among the State's lowest.

Ames is a progressive community. It established the nation's first municipally owned and operated resource recovery system that converts refuse into energy and recovers nonburnable materials for recycling. The city bus system earned recognition for Ames as an All America City. The public schools have been cited for excellence by the federal government.

The Iowa State Center in Ames is the site of unmatched cultural, educational and entertainment facilities. Cities many times larger than Ames would be proud to have a complex such as this.

In Ames you are only minutes away from schools, parks, shopping, big-time sports and stage entertainment, restaurants, outdoor recreation, and your workplace. Driving and parking are easy, and the prices are right. No wonder, then, that "University, Community, Opportunity" is becoming synonymous with Ames.

For more detailed information regarding the infrastructure of Ames and incentive programs for businesses wishing to locate in Ames, contact the Ames Economic Development Commission at 213 Duff Av., Ames, IA 50010, (515) 232-2310, FAX (515) 232-6716.

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Iowa State University has emerged as a broad based university of international stature from its beginning as an agricultural college. It was created as the Iowa Agricultural College and Model Farm by the Iowa General Assembly in 1858 and became a land-grant college in 1864 under terms of the federal Morrill Act. Iowa State was a worldwide pioneer in the establishment of agricultural studies on a college level, was the first state institution to found a veterinary school, helped move the engineering profession to its present key position in an industrial society, emphasized basic sciences, and took leadership in establishing the profession of home economics. The modern Cooperative Extension Service network grew out of the early community Farmers Institute gatherings organized by Iowa State, and the electronic digital computer was invented at Iowa State in the late 1930's by physics and mathematics professor John V. Atanasoff. It was renamed Iowa State University of Science and Technology in 1959.

Colleges within the university are Agriculture, Business Administration, Design, Education, Engineering, Family and Consumer Sciences, Graduate, Sciences and Humanities and Veterinary Medicine.

The Stanton Memorial Carillonis.

A memorial to Margaret McDonald Stanton, first dean of women and her husband, Edgar W. Stanton, who served the University for 50 years. The carillon has 50 bells. Brief concerts are given each week day during the academic year. Longer concerts are performed on special occasions.

A federal land-grant institution, Iowa State has a three-fold mission:

1. Resident instruction on both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

2. Extensive programs of research.

3. Statewide University extension services.

Total University enrollment is 25,448 students. 21 residence halls house 8,800 students, 1,170 families and 450 single students live in university apartments.

More than $86 million was spent on research at ISU in 1987-88.

University land in Ames and throughout the State totals 8,878 acres with 1,770 acres in the main campus and recreation areas.

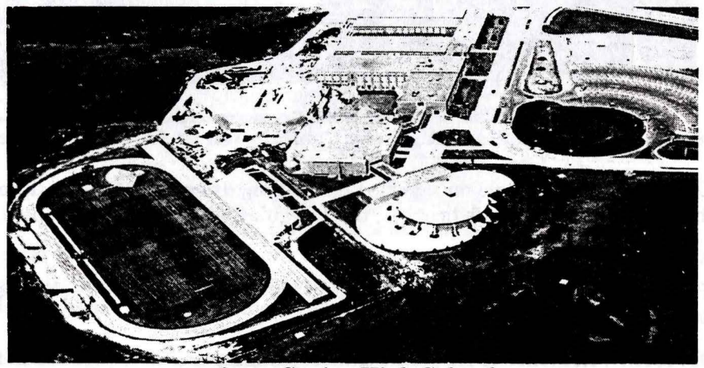
NATIONAL ANIMAL DISEASE CENTER



The National Animal Disease Center, Ames, Iowa, is the United States Department of Agriculture's laboratory for investigation of livestock and poultry diseases that occur in the United States. These diseases rob the American farmers of approximately $2 billion annually and decrease the supply of animal protein to the consumer.

Completed and occupied in 1961, the Center is located three miles northeast of the city. Constructed for approximately $16.5 million, the laboratory has an annual operating budget in excess of $80.0 million and continues to expand its research and laboratory facilities. It is the world's most modern veterinary research facility requiring as many utilities and services as a small city. Many of the animals used in various research projects are reared at the Animal Protection Unit, which is located approximately one and one-eighth miles south of the main laboratory.

The laboratory employees approximately 500 persons, one-fourth of whom are scientists-research veterinarians, microbiologists, pathologists, biochemists, physicists and other biological scientists. Many support employees such as laboratory assistants, technicians and administrative personnel are also employed. Investigation of each disease entity is conducted by a team of scientists who have different and specialized training.

AMES PUBLIC SCHOOLS

As a community, Ames has been willing to commit the necessary resources to assure outstanding educational opportunities for its young people. The public school system consists of a high school, middle school, elementary schools, and a school for the mentally retarded.
